Commencement of 1940 Has Passed Hermon and Seminary Graduate Many Visitors Here For Gatherings

Large classes of seniors at both Mount Hermon school and at Northfield Seminary ended their study careers at these institutions and graduated last Monday in the commencement exercises. The full program of the week was carried out as printed in last week's Press, despite some unpleasant weather. Hundreds of visitors came to Northfield and the hotel, inns and tourist homes were crowded with guests. On Saturday evening the Eetey chorus of the Seminary and the Hermon Glee Club gave a joint concert which was largely attended and much appreciated.

At the Seminary, the Baccalaureate on Sunday morning was addressed by Principal Mira B. Wilson. The Auditorium was filled to capacity. Rev. H. B. Ingalls, chaplain presided and the choir sang under the direction of Melvin Gallagher. Miss Wilson said "Not by themselves did our ancestors found a nation—scientists achieve their results—writers create their masterpieces—but with the aid of God in whom they believed. The false note of over-simplification of life and its demands upon men hindered rather than helped the cause of God."

At Mount Hermon, the Baccalaureate was held in the Memorial chapel, filled with the students and their friends. The seniors numbered 200, the largest class in the history of the school. Dr. Glover Johnson acting pastor of the church, presided at the service and Carlton W. L'Hommedieu presided at the organ. Dr. David R. Porter Headmaster, gave the address. He said in part: "The condition of the world as we meet at the close of this school year makes us re-think the value of liberty. Our forefathers learned from vivid and sacrificial experience how valuable a thing liberty is. But for our generation it had become an ordinary thing. We took it for granted. It was bought at a price but it would cost us nothing. Today we must see that our dearly-bought liberty can be preserved and possibly enriched only at an equivalent price. It will probably not be to the battlefields that we are summoned. It may be in quieter and less dramatic ways that we shall help."

Monday morning the commencement exercises were held and the Auditorium at the Seminary and Memorial chapel at Hermon were again well filled. The speakers were Sir Wilfred Grenfell at the Seminary and James Lee Ellenwood at Hermon. At the Seminary, Miss Wilson presided and 152 members of the senior class received their diplomas.

The Franklin county girls graduated as Sybil Severance of East Northfield, Naomi Rikert of Mount Hermon, Carolyn Rikert of East Northfield, and Beulah C. Downs of Mount Hermon.

Grenfell's address was a ringing challenge to today's youth for service to mankind with no regard for personal reward. Citing his own desire to serve people in one of the most difficult centers of the world, he claimed his reward has been immeasurable personal happiness. Dr. Grenfell declared that such service by no means demands continual sacrifice but it does demand common sense with a goal of achievement.

He echoed Milliken's sentiment that "Science no longer has any controversy with religion," and cited several cases where scientists had given the best of their knowledge and ability for the sake of Christ and humanity. Dr. Grenfell's firm belief that in Christ there is strength was brought home to his audience. He gave to D. L. Moody, founder of the Northfield Schools, the credit for turning his thoughts toward service to his fellowmen.

"War March of the Priests," by Mendelssohn, was the processional played while the seniors in their traditional caps and gowns, followed by the faculty, marched down the center aisle of the auditorium, while hundreds of parents and guests stood near their seats. Chaplain Harold B. Ingalls read the scriptures and the choir sang the anthem, "Lift Up Thine Eyes."

Following the presentation of diplomas to the members of the graduating class the Northfield Award for Significant Service was presented to Miss Mary A. Dingman.

At Mount Hermon, Headmaster Porter presided and the diplomas were graciously received by the seniors and among the graduates were these from our county: Dean

Carman of Northfield, Gordon Carr, Arthur Bolton, Jr., Frank V. Tie, Robert Hopkins, Ralph M. Forsaith, Jr., and John C. Polhemus of East Northfield, Kenneth Sutherland of Shelburne Falls, Robert F. Birdsall of Mount Hermon, and Philip Nims of Greenfield. With a marching tune played by the organist, Carlton

Miss Mira B. Wilson

W. L'Hommedieu, and led by the junior marshals, Charles Hall, next year's president of the Student Council, and Frank Gifford, president of the class of 1941, the seniors marched two by two down the center aisle to find their seats in the first two rows of Memorial chapel.

Dr. James Lee Ellenwood gave the commencement address. He said in part: "As you go out of these gates of Hermon today to enter the larger areas of life, remember three things: First, that there are certain principles that have emerged from the centuries of human experience and have become a vital part of the good life today. Second, as you go out from here, many of you indulging in college the kind of life many envy you for, be considerate of the wishes of others. The world is a brotherhood, although many today refuse to recognize it as such, or to go on that principle. In our world today, you cannot go your way regardless of others. Remember that you have been in school only because others have helped you. The third point was the need of a faith that this is God's world. This is hard to believe. It looks just now as though God's will were being thwarted, but don't you believe it. We may not understand the will of God in all things, but we must believe that He will be victorious. If we don't there is no hope in Christ. If you do believe in this hope of a victorious world in Christ, then your life will change likewise."

In connection with commencement various events were scheduled: At Sage chapel at the early service Sunday, communion was observed, after which memorial tablets of bronze were dedicated on the south wall in honor of two seminary alumnae who have died during the past year after having served as foreign missionaries.

One was in honor of Margaret Otte de Velder '25, who died last year in China. Her niece, Elaine Scholten of Neshanic, N. J., a student at the seminary, made the dedication. The other tablet was in memory of Christine B. Heron, who was at the seminary from 1893 to 1896, and who spent 43 years in India. Her dedication was made by Jane Porter, a student here whose father was a missionary in India. Also on Sunday was a service on Round Top, which was led by Rev. Ellis E. Jones, retired head of the Bible department of the seminary. On Saturday, there was a meeting of the Alumnae Association, and a reception to alumnae, seniors and friends at Miss Wilson's home. The Students Aid society met Sunday afternoon. There was an hour of music in Sage chapel Sunday evening followed by the lantern service when the seniors handed down to their successors, the keeping of "the light."

At Hermon, class day was observed on Saturday when the seniors held away. Sunday afternoon Headmaster and Mrs. Porter gave a reception to the faculty, seniors and friends and on Sunday evening there was an hour of music in the chapel.

Farewell to seniors of 1940, may your paths lead to honor, glory and success.

Hayden Candidate For County Office Visits Northfield

Clarence W. Hayden of Orange has announced his candidacy for the office of County Commissioner. He is a well known contractor and has been in active political life for many years. He is chairman of the Orange board of selectmen and also of the assessors. Since Orange, as a district, has not been favored with a member on the county board, friends of Mr. Hayden have urged him to seek the nomination, as he has every qualification for the office.

General approval and wholehearted support have been offered Mr. Hayden in his candidacy in the several towns of the county and recently upon a visit to Northfield he was assured the support of many citizens. Mr. Hayden who has been in the contracting and building business for the past 12 years, has also been associated with duties that recommend him for election to the office he seeks. His work on the Millers river clearance and water control projects the past three years as well as duties relating to road work, assessing and construction activities have all tied in with the county work. He has a wide acquaintance throughout the county and a background which recommends him for a position on the county board. Present members of the commissioners include Samuel U. Streeter, Carlos Allen and Allen C. Burnham. The latter term expires this year. Nomination paper will be circulated here soon.

House-To-House Canvass Ordered By The Red Cross

The doubled quota of the Red Cross appeal for $16,000 for Franklin county which includes $1142 from Northfield, is sadly lacking in response, and at a luncheon meeting in the Mansion House held last Thursday noon of the various town chairmen, as guests of John W. Haigis, county chairman, the Franklin County chapter advised that a house to house canvass must be made if the desired amount is to be secured.

Miss June Lonas, field supervisor from national headquarters, was the principal speaker, and read a telegram from the Red Cross representatives in Europe which stated that the "impact on our food and other supplies has been staggering, and resources will soon be exhausted." She admitted that the national organization had hoped that sufficient funds could be raised through spontaneous contributions, but that now it was evident that an intensive, organized campaign would be necessary to meet the needs.

When several workers remarked that it would be difficult, especially in the smaller towns, to approach the same contributors again, Miss Lonas suggested that the emergency nature of the appeal be stressed. Concerning possible American involvement in the war, which would bring further need for Red Cross appeals, Miss Lonas revealed that the organization has a reserve fund of $25,000,000 which can be used only in the event of American participation in the conflict.

While praising Franklin county for its previous records in Red Cross roll calls, Miss Lonas was forced to remark that this area's returns are now the lowest in the Connecticut valley. John W. Haigis spoke in reassurance, however, pointing out that the total now was nearly $2400, much of which had been gained in the past week.

Special efforts will have to be made, however in most towns and Mr. Pitt, for Northfield, will soon make an announcement of his plans for this town. Contributions may be made by individuals and organizations and sent directly to Mr. Pitt, who will make acknowledgement.

The Class Reunions At The Seminary

Led by the class of 1885, celebrating its 55th reunion at the seminary, the annual alumnae parade wound in and around the spacious campus with cheering hundreds viewing the scene. Although gray skies were overhead gay hearts and smiling faces were everywhere. Nothing could dim the enthusiasm of the 400 alumnae who appeared last Saturday in various garb for the annual procession.

Some classes could be dated by their dress and hats, while others disguised their year of graduation by multicolored costumes. The march of the parade was Beatrice Freeman '27, of East Northfield, and the chairman of the reunion was Elizabeth Pen-nock, '35, of Harrison, N. Y.

Four out of the six living members of the class of 1885 were present at the reunion. Among these were Mrs. Anna Bingham Freeman, East Northfield, president of the class, which was the second one to graduate from the Seminary. Others were Lucinda Montague Gunn of Sunderland, Bessie Prentiss Jones of Windham, Vt., and Mrs. Exsie Caldwell Weeks of Calais, Vt.

The 50th golden jubilee class was that of 1890, which had almost a score back. Among these were Carrie G. Britton of Northfield, Mrs. John Campbell of New York City, Elizabeth Chapin of Torrington, Ct., Grace A. Dean of Dalton, Pa., Edith A. Farrington of Athol, Nettle Evans Gilbert of Northfield, Mrs. Charlotte Harlow of Bellows Falls, Vt., Mrs. William Kingsbury of Glastonbury, Vt., Mrs. John McDowell of South Orange, N. J., who is the secretary; Jennie S. Moore of Jaffrey, N. H.; Mrs. E. H. Newcomb of Kittery Point, Me.; Mrs. Warren Tirrell of Brockton, Mrs. Dean Williams of Chester, Vt., Clara B. Woolson of Brookline, N. H., and Mrs. Millicent Yarrow of Washington, D. C.

The class of 1895 was represented by Mrs. John Kingsford of New Haven and Mrs. Christobel C. Merrett of Boston. The 1900 class had its class teacher Miss Lucy Savage of Cromwell, Ct., in the reunion parade. Others were Mrs. Clifton Baker of North Amherst, Mildred Brown of Northampton, president of the class; Grace B. Darling of Sunderland, Helen Livingstone of New York

City, a trustee of the Northfield schools.

From the class of '05 president Alice Collis of Amherst was supported by Daisy Briggs of South Vernon, Mass., Mrs. Alice Finch of Pittsfield, Emma Hutchins of West Chesterfield, N. H., and Alida Van Volkenburgh of Albany. In the 1910 class were Dorothy P. Felt of Keuka Park, N. Y., Florine Tucker of Chester, Ct., and Mrs. Harry Wiggins of Melrose, president.

Mrs. Emma Pitt Powell, granddaughter of Dwight L. Moody, and president of the class of 1916, and Dr. Marion Morse of Endicott, Vt., trustee of the schools, represented 1915. President Elizabeth Glasby of Verona, N. J., and Harriett Yarrow of Dallas, Texas, were among those of 1920. Mary McCall of New York City was back with those for 1925, and so was Marjorie Peet Bradley of West Haven, Ct. Twenty-three were back for '30, including Mrs. Ethel Beatty of East Northfield, president, and the class teacher, Beulah Scott of Greenfield. For 1935 the class teacher, Marian Keller and for the class of 1939, with 45 returned, was Barbara Allen of Vassar college, president. The parade ended in front of the Skinner Memorial gymnasium

Red Cross Appeal

To provide immediate help to the armies of women, children, invalids and aged left homeless and dependent by the Nazi scourge, the American Red Cross is appealing for contributions to its relief fund. The need grows daily as a glance at any daily newspaper will testify. Contributions in Northfield may be sent to A. P. Fitt in the Bookstore building. The drive has been put upon an entirely voluntary basis rather than being an organized campaign. Emphasis is placed upon the humanitarian needs so that there may be no "Blackout of Mercy."

To Attend Institute International Affairs

Miss Helen King Gethman, Miss Julia B. Austin and Miss Erma V. Reynolds of this town have registered to attend the annual conference of the New England Institute of International Relations, which will be held at Wellesley college, June 25th to July 5th.

Proposals for peace, based on negotiation rather than dictation, America's relation to the war now in progress, the place of religion in a world at war, and the role of minorities in American democracy are some of the questions to be considered at the eleven-day session.

The New England Institute is one of ten institutes of international relations sponsored by the American Friends Service committee and the Council for Social Action of the Congregational-Christian churches.

"Nothing is more false than the idea that all knowledge is beneficial. There are chasms in human nature, into which it is not well to peer and the sounding of which is not only futile but destructive to the soul. Humility is of all qualities the one most needed for the acquisition of knowledge. It will save you from dogmatism, prejudice, impatience with the views of others, and will develop the spirit of the higher and truer scholarship."

EDITORIAL

The graduation of our young folks is all about us. The public and private schools, the colleges and universities are sending forth its students to future endeavors, either in the field of education, or in business and professional careers. Each individual will face their opportunities in serious mood and upon the seriousness with which they view life, will depend their ultimate success. The student who really wants and will work to secure his or her complete education, will eventually become the citizen worth while.

It is hard to "keep calm" these days with the news of the wars, and my nerves are on edge. I find my friends are all in the same condition. Once I prayed for peace and thought peace possible among all humanities. Now I have forsaken all peace affiliations and am keeping my "powder dry." With freedom and liberty taken away by brute force, with murder and rape of the innocent unleashed, with suffering and destruction prevalent in the path of ruthlessness in Europe, there came a sigh of relief as I heard our President declare himself for the sentiment of human justice. He answers Italy's entrance into the war as despicable, a "stab in the back to a friendly neighbor." As Americans we must realize that the democracies of the world, and its peoples can no longer ignore nor endure the stern realities that are emanating from cruel and brutal tyrant rulers.

The Back Yard Gardener

By G. O. Oleson

They tell me that once you start with dahlias, you get the "bug" and there is never any end to what you'll do to get more or newer varieties of dahlias. The pest which attacks the plant itself is commonly known as the dahlia borer. Of course, there are other pests on the dahlia, but the borer seems to be perhaps the worst.

So far as the borer is concerned, his presence is indicated by the wilting of the top portion of the main stalk. You can usually find a hole where he entered just below the wilted portion. Then you take a sharp knife and slit the stem just above the joint and you usually find Mr. Borer. I think you know what to do after you find him. The slit, if tied up, will grow together again in a few days.

Another way is to take some carbon disulphide, and by using a medicine dropper or a small oil can, squirt it into the hole where the borer entered. Then close the hole with damp earth.

Other pests like the cutworm, white grub, aphids, thrip, leafhoppers, etc., also attack dahlias and, of course, here you follow the usual recommendations for sucking insects or chewing insects—a nicotine spray for the sucking and a lead arsenate spray or dust for the chewing.

According to what I read, the main point in successful dahlia growing is the disbudbing or training system. You can use one of several systems—the single-stem system or the multiple-stem system, or a combination. The purpose anyway is two-fold. It removes a lot of shrubby growth that the plant tends to produce. Furthermore, the plant will start more buds than it can possibly produce to best advantage, so in the disbudbing or pruning, you simply select the more vigorous buds and you keep the plant to a reasonable size. Another thing, with less growth on the plant, there is not the need for staking and, furthermore, you allow light and better circulation of air, which helps control diseases and insects.

Dahlia tubers or roots can be planted safely up to the middle of June. They like a sunny location—in fact, they almost insist upon it, and they like a soil that is well drained and is quite rich in plant food elements. The more humus you have in the soil, the better. Many dahlia growers use green manure crops to plow under before planting. Others add plenty of peat moss before planting. Just remember, though, the more humus you have, the better dahlias you produce.

As far as the fertilizers are concerned, they recommend a fertilizer which is a little stronger in phosphorus and potash than in nitrogen. Also, remember that a top dressing after the plants have started to grow will be a big help. Done meal has been reported upon very favorably.

As far as varieties are concerned, that's up to you. There are 13 or 14 different types and some 14,000 named garden varieties. My friend, Dave Arnold, says that as a starter, the pom-poms are probably as attractive as any that we have. If you like the large-flowered forms, he suggests these varieties: Jane Cowl, old-gold color; Jersey Beauty, a pink; Lord of Autumn, a yellow; and Sunset Scarlet, which has old-gold edges and back. The variety, Satan, is a cardinal red with yellow backs on the petals. Fort Mommouth is good rich red.

The annual meeting of the women of the town to consider matters of business in connection with Alexander Hall and to choose committee members will be held in Alexander hall next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It is hoped that there will be a good attendance.

Hermion's Athletics

The physical education department of Mount Hermon school announces the football schedule for next fall as follows: Oct. 26, Mass. State freshmen, here; Nov. 2 at Wilbraham; Nov. 9, Vermont Academy here; Nov. 16, at Williston.

Spring sports captains elected for next year are as follows: Baseball, John Burke; track, Pete Adams; lacrosse, Brad Harris and Bob Douglas, co-captains. In tennis and golf the captains have not yet been elected.

A resume of the past seasons sports for variety teams indicate a total of 29 victories, 23 losses, and 1 tie. Counting all games with other schools, including second, third and fourth teams, the grand total is 68 wins, 51 losses, and 2 ties.

This spring the baseball team won 3 games and lost 1; golf won 2 and lost 2; lacrosse won 2 and lost 2; tennis won 3 and lost 1; track won 2 and lost 1, and came within one twelfth of a point of winning the Interscholastic Track Meet on Memorial Day.

Know Massachusetts

Compiled by State Planning Board

Do you know that Massachusetts has more foreign-born residents than all but three States, New York, Pennsylvania, and Illinois. . . . The first vessel built at New Bedford, "Dartmouth," also was one of the ships whose cargoes of tea were dumped into the sea during the Boston Tea Party in 1773.

. . . The original Westinghouse plant at East Springfield first manufactured Russian rifles, then changed to machine guns, later manufactured starting and lighting equipment, and now makes vacuum cleaners, fans, air-conditioning equipment and refrigerating units. . . . In 1850 a clock was given to Faneuil Hall by the school children of Boston and their names are to be read when a century has passed (1950) and the box in which these "penny subscribers" are enumerated is removed from the case. . . . Cost of Living index in Massachusetts in April 1940 was 136.9, which compared with 139.1 a year ago, and was the lowest for any April since 1936. . . . In a referendum vote, the town of Wellesley recently sustained the action of its limited town meeting which adopted 20-ft. minimum width of residential side yards and established minimums of 10,000, 15,000 and 20,000 sq. ft. for house lots. . . . A report on foreign trade recently issued by the State Planning Board shows that last year 48 per cent of merchandise exported through Massachusetts Customs went to Great Britain. . . . The only company in the United States devoted entirely to manufacture of horsehoes is located in Wareham. . . . Between 1824 and 1858 the Boston peninsula was enlarged from 783 to 1801 acres by filling

An Invitation to Young Men from 18 to 25
from the

NATIONAL FARM YOUTH FOUNDATION

The men who are responsible for the Ford tractor have established this Foundation to make a new kind of opportunity available to young men living or working on the farm.

Those who are selected as Members of the Foundation will receive, without obligation, a specially prepared course in Farm Engineering and Management conducted by La Salle Extension University. This course is complete and authoritative, and if regularly sold, would be priced at $136.

But in addition, members will receive regular class training under our personal guidance, and will also be given the opportunity to gain practical experience in sales and demonstration work.

This education and training is invaluable. But in addition, the Foundation will award two salaried jobs to young men in this general area, as well as other desirable awards.

The whole story of this unusual opportunity is told in the book, A New Career. We have a copy for you. Come in and get it, tomorrow, and let us tell you more about the Foundation. Do not delay, because our training class starts soon.

THE NATIONAL FARM
YOUTH FOUNDATION
is sponsored by Ferguson-
Sherman Mfg. Corp., with the cooperation of Henry Ford, Founder,
and Edsel Ford, President, of the Ford Motor Company.
